BIOGRAPHICAL

She usually went by the nickname of Bloomey in census and land records. His name appears in Freehold land records in 1841. Of Union Twp., Ocean County, in 1850, he bought land near Waretown from Wycoffe and Birdsall. He and wife Bloomey signed a deed for land in Union Township in 1850 with the other heirs of his father, James W. Chamberlin, deceased. This deed was for 8/10 of a cedar swamp and upland in Union, granted to George Moore, husband of his deceased sister Hannah.

He is buried near his infant son (not named) and son Newel in the old Waretown Cemetery in Waretown. His gravestone reads: "Francis W. Chamberlain, Died April 20, 1854, aged 36 years and 27 days. Our Father's pains are past, labors and sorrows cease, and life's long warfare closed at last, and now he rests in peace." His tombstone, when examined in May 1972, had fallen over and was broken in half.

Bloomey's second husband, Thomas Gray, was a blacksmith and they apparently always lived at Waretown, NJ. By this marriage she had six children. See the Family Record for Thomas Gray and Margaret Penn, Supplement to No. 62 for further details on this family.
