BIOGRAPHICAL

He was a carpenter and was living at Romeo, MI, as early as 1855.

The migration of this family is somewhat difficult to pin down but it seems fairly certain they lived in or near Glenville in Schenectady county from the time of their marriage. They were still there at the time of the 1820 census where he was probably the “Levi B. Chamberlin” heading a family of 200100-20100. His son Levi was said to have been born in Rush, Monroe county which I am inclined to doubt since his birth occurred in June of that year—the same month that the census taking usually commenced. Probably soon after this, however, they did move to Rush and apparently remained there for some time. In 1830, they were there where he was listed as Levi D. Chamberlin, heading a family of 002001-221001.

In 1840, he was living in Saginaw, MI, heading a family of 02011001-1112001. This indicates that they probably left Rush, NY, sometime between 1830 and 1840.
