BIOGRAPHICAL

He was of Brooklyn, NY, at the time of their marriage. Previously he served in the Union army during the Civil War, rising from the rank of Private to Adjutant General. He received the degree of L.L.B. from Columbia College, and was admitted to the bar of New York in 1872, and continued to practice in that city. For 25 years he was an officer in the state militia, retiring as Colonel and Inspector General. He was also a member of the Loyal Legion and other patriotic organizations. He was interested in genealogy and published a history of his wife's ancestry, which was published in the Chamberlain Association of America Annual Report for 1905-07.

Adelia was a member of the D.A.R. and other societies.
