BIOGRAPHICAL

He seems to have first lived at Ryegate, Vermont, until about 1813, when he removed to Littleton, New Hampshire, where he lived until 1853, at which time his wife was Sally (History of Newbury, Vermont). Wells is off a point here, as in 1850, Dudley was living with another family and no presumed wife named Sally was with him.

No Dudley's found in the early censuses, until 1830, when three of them suddenly appear; two at Wolfeboro, NH, and this man at Littleton, with a family of 0001001-132011. This indicates a larger family than the information at hand supplies. In 1840, he was of Bethlehem, Grafton Co., NH, heading a family of 00001001-0212001. These records indicate that he had only one son (Walter), but six daughters in addition to the first two born at Ryegate. Two of the six would be Sally and Priscilla, but there were four more whose names we do not know.

In 1850 Federal Census, Dudley was living with a John Goddard and family as follows: Littleton, Grafton Co., NH, #243/245, 31 July 1850, P. 133:

Chamberlin	Dudley	66	F	W	Farmer	$ 1,000	VT
------------	--------	----	---	---	--------	----------	----

(Living with John Goddard, et al, probably a son-in-law.)

The 1811 date of marriage to Hannah given by The Wright-Chamberlin Genealogy (and Prentiss Glazier) coupled with a previously guessed birthdate of 1779, puts him at about 32 years old which seems off a bit for a first marriage. However, the 1850 census clears this up by giving his age as 66 which would make him about 27 for his first marriage. But now, the supposed marriage date of 1811 doesn't match up with the birth of the first daughter in 1809. Did Dudley have a previous marriage to Hannah?
