- F 5376 Annetta G⁸, b. 22 July 1849, Clifford Twp., Susquehanna Co., PA. She began teaching in a public school in Clifford Twp., Susquehanna Co., PA, the first Monday in May, 1866. She remained in this township for four terms, then taught one in Lenox township of the same county; returning to Clifford for three terms. After attending the Mansfield State Normal one fall, she taught one term at Gun Hill, in Lenox; then three terms in Clifford and two terms at Lenoxville. The year of 1877 was spent in Buffalo, NY, studying telegraphy but returned to her old occupation, teaching the year of 1881-82 in Lanesboro, the summer of 1883 in Auburn, Susquehanna Co., PA; winter of 1883-84 in Conyngham, Luzerne Co., PA; summer of 1884 at Clifford Corners; the fall and winter of 1884-85 at Pennngrove, Salem Co., NJ.

In the fall of 1885 she began teaching in the graded school of Forest City, PA, where, with the exception of one year lost by having malaria and one year spent in caring for a sick sister, she remained until the summer of 1896, when she returned home and assumed the care of her sick sister, Adah, and her aged parents, all of whom passed away in the year of 1899, the sister leaving an orphan son to whom the remaining years of her life were most devotedly given. When he was away at school she taught one year in Rush, Susquehanna Co., PA; the year of 1906-07 at Green Grove school in Lenox and one year at Gun Hill, also in Lenox.

Although she received her permanent certificate in 1882, she did not give up studying. Many an early morning hour was spent with her book while the rest of the household was napping. None knew her but to love her.

After her father's death she bought and occupied the old homestead, where she died October 9, 1911, and was buried in the family plot near the home, which was laid out by her grandfather, Levi Chamberlin in 1822.

BIOGRAPHICAL

He was a carpenter and although he always lived on the farm, he worked at carpentering for many years.

As a youth, he was a great reader for his time and when old age prevented his working, books and newspapers were the entertainers of his lone hours and furnished fresh topics for discussion with his children and neighbors. He died on the farm he purchased of his father prior to 1844.

In 1840, he was living at Clifford, Susquehanna Co., PA, heading a family of 00001-00001.
