BIOGRAPHICAL

He lived since 1857 in Bradford, VT. In 1858, he enlisted in the Bradford Guards, one of the first; in 1861-62, he enlisted under the first call for volunteers, in the Civil War, and went out with the 1st Vermont Volunteer regiment, being 1st Sergeant of Company D in 1862, was mustered out at the expiration of his term, but re-entered the service as Captain of Company H (Bradford Guards), 12th Vermont Volunteers. He has held several town offices in Bradford, discharging the duties of each faithfully and represented that town in the Vermont Legislature of 1890.

Her parents were of Bradford, VT.

Her sister, Helen F. Corliss, married his cousin Remembrance Wright⁸ Chamberlin [LN 5271].

The lack of jurisdictional information provided by the Wright-Chamberlin Genealogy (major source) makes it nearly impossible to lend any confidence in guessing where family events took place.

They were living in 1901.
